the kitten were kept iscolated as origionally requested of Amy and Indy, it wouldn't've happened

Sir Ahzz: fleas carry worm eggs from the bloodstream.

Sir Ahzz: they are what infest things. fleas were gone until a couple weeks ago.

Sir Ahzz: it was simply bad timing that a flea got into the building seeking heat

Elizabeth Botelho states that Amy Snelgrove (an NTT-VERIO former employee) and John Marquis II (Indy) were informed of the isolation protocols during the travel and no illness present prior such agreement and payment to maintain the care of the animals INSIDE the exclusive isolated room.

while abandoning it's previous host outside.

1 Sir Ahzz: it's a common occurrence in pet ownership.

2 amoscio: brian, with all the animals i have had, NONE of them ever had anything worse than a few bug bites from mosquitoes (both cats and dogs)

Sir Ahzz: more than likely the fleas either came in via cracks in the walls, or they were still in the room that the cats were kept in originally.

Sir Ahzz: then you are lucky.

Sir Ahzz: very lucky.

3 Sir Ahzz: and had a nicely sealed up appt/house/whatever.

4 Sir Ahzz: we aren't that lucky. and part of the remodeling is to seal things up and eliminate cracks, dust, and hazards such as a free standing cement wall that is in danger of collapsing.

5 Sir Ahzz: we discovered that the cross bars that held up the doorways were split and crumbling from age, making the door stick and sag badly. the wall MOVED when pushed on by an inch or so.

6 Sir Ahzz: the wood bracing was rotten from moisture and termites.

7 amoscio: all it is is simply caring for animals properly. Here in England, our cats were all outdoor cats, they never had a problem. the dogs would constantly be exposed to the mud and dust and grime out of the outdoors. and for the time we had dogs, we had cats

8 Sir Ahzz: james KNEW all of this. it's why we were remodeling things in the first place.

9 Sir Ahzz: ok, if you had outdoor cats that never got fleas. I say you were either nieve and didn't find them, or you bathed them monthly in flea dip.

10 Sir Ahzz: Texas is one of the heaviest places for fleas, ticks, etc.

11 Sir Ahzz: it's known for them on pets.

amoscio: we simply took care of all the animals

Sir Ahzz: it's practically impossible to not have fleas unless it's an indoor only pet.

12 amoscio: no . . . its not

Sir Ahzz: ok, at this point it is now obvious that you aren't interested in hearing about this and aren't open to discussing things to get a better perspective.

Sir Ahzz: good day.
